Professional Consultancy Services

In today's high risk environment of Global threat the challenges to business have never been greater. Whilst we would all agree that safety and security are of paramount importance both at a personal and business level, the priorities of commerce are equally challenging and the pressures to succeed ever demanding. Securing your assets can become a difficult balance between business efficiency and security, with potential costs often outweighing losses and the unexpected incident compromising profit margins, costing time and generally damaging business interests. Under these circumstances it is difficult for any organization to gauge the levels of security resource to be deployed at any given time. All organizations operate with only finite levels of management and labour resource which can on occasion become stretched, diminishing the capability to respond to every challenge and routine. Therefore BHPSS offers a portfolio of Security Consultancy services designed to augment your day to day security management requirements whether your requirements are for full policy implementation, special projects or on going support and monitoring.

Our objective is to save you time and resources in a format that can be controlled at you discretion.

Professional Key holding & Response Solutions

BHPSS have been providing high quality and reliable key holding and response services for over 40 years, within the Industrial, Commercial and domestic market segments. Operating fully within the Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO) requirements and regulations, BHPSS can offer a front line emergency response service for your home or business. Whilst your premises and valuables may well be protected by an intruder alarm and Police response, the responsibility to attend following alarm activations is never convenient.

Attending late at night in all weather conditions may also present a hazard to the attendee where attendance has to be made as a lone respondent. In certain circumstances where there has been an intrusion to your premises lone access can even present a danger to your health and well being. BHPSS offer a highly professional emergency response service designed specifically to remove the responsibility, inconvenience and potential danger from your key holder. Whilst linking a Police response facility to your emergency procedures is hugely beneficial maintaining the high standards and targets associated with the retention of this facility can be difficult and in some circumstances daunting. Therefore, reliability of response and adherence to the stringent administration procedures are vital to the success of the protection of your property.

With 42 years of hands on experience and a comprehensive response infrastructure BHPSS have the professionalism and capability to be able to ensure that your premises are secure and that all procedures are fully observed throughout the response and administration procedure. Our highly experienced response team are fully supported by our 24 hour control facility and are comprehensively trained to deal with all eventualities whilst responding quickly and effectively to any alarm activation. Liaising with the Police and your Alarm Receiving Centre (ARC) BHPSS Officers will ensure that false alarms and intrusions are dealt with in accordance with your own precise instructions. Our comprehensive service can include emergency repairs, engineer access, emergency services liaison, full reporting procedures and accompanied site attendance.

The one thing that BHPSS will never do is leave your premises insecure or unattended. Therefore, if you are seeking peace of mind and an effective and low cost front line emergency response and management service we can help. With BHPSS you can be assured of total peace of mind. For an immediate no obligation consultation with our trained and qualified security professionals simply contact us on our head office telephone number today.

Combined Community Security Response Services

“Who’s watching your premises tonight?”

In a highly competitive market place it is fair to state that most commercial and public organisations are primarily concerned with their own highly important core business activities. In a perfect world we would all wish to be unhindered in our concentration on creating a successful organisation. Unfortunately we live in a world where on occasion crime may interrupt this concentration and the consequences of crime may impact significantly upon operations, management time and ultimately financial well being. Whilst undeniably effective, security Technology Installations and static Manned Guarding services can be costly. Often these traditional deterrents may not be wholly proportionate to the specific risk of crime.

Therefore, BHPSS have designed a service which draws upon the undoubted strengths of both technological and manned security applications and combines these into a powerful, effective and low cost service. Utilising the strengths of existing security measures within the business community and linking this to a highly flexible combination of Technology and Manned Guarding BHPSS are able to provide a highly responsive and flexible crime deterrent. This cost effective service can detect crime quickly, instantly reporting directly to the emergency services via a human interface. In addition to early detection the service can attend the potential crime scene within minutes ensuring a physical presence and deterrent.

In many instances this swift intervention can prevent a crime and provide the Police with vital information deterring future criminality and ensuring that your premises are safe and secure. Additional benefits include accurate and instant report compilation, witness statements and remedial action without the need for your own direct attendance.

This service is effective proportionate and can be easily integrated into existing security measures such as alarm installations and key holding response. BHPSS will provide a free initial assessment and consultation helping you to decide on the level and cost of the service.

“Is there a better way to meet the high cost of securing your premises?”

About BHPSS

Established in 1969 by a former Police Officer the company was formed specifically to fulfil the requirements of a group of prestigious Global customers with operations within the vicinity of Buxton. Since that time the company has progressed in a pre planned and co-ordinated manner, expanding operations throughout the North of England and now throughout Great Britain, offering high quality Manned Guarding and allied services to a prestigious and growing Client portfolio. The provision of a high quality service to our customers is our prime concern and the successful and professional execution of this obligation is considered to be the key factor to the continued success and growth of the company. A long established and wholly owned organisation BHPSS are currently expanding operations throughout Great Britain in a carefully coordinated fully financed programme. During 44 years of service delivery experience BHPSS have recognised the importance of offering a range of high quality and flexible services. BHPSS are constantly seeking to innovate and realise cost and efficiency savings on behalf of our satisfied customers. Whilst it is the fundamental objective of the company to offer an unparalleled Security service, we are equally conscious of the huge potential in terms of cost reduction and efficiencies that can be realised through the integration of operations and by making synergies between the various services offered by BHPSS.

Managed Integration BHPSS may also be able to assist with the integration or bundling of a range services. Our 40 year history of managing people provides us with a wealth of experience within the project management of personnel services.

There are a number of ways in which this approach can help our customers realise cost and efficiency savings.

Synergies Often there are potential synergies existing within the services that we provide on behalf of our customers. For example there are occasions where Manned Guarding operations are under utilised or where the perceived threat of crime is reduced. In these circumstances Security Officers can provide dual services.
